Saigon Youths Toss Bombs at Americans

By GEORGE ESPER
Associated Press Writer
SAIGON (AP) — Angered by the killing of a Vietnamese youth by an American soldier, Vietnamese on motorbikes threw firebombs at U.S. vehicles in Hue in a new wave of anti-American demonstrations, U.S. officers reported today.

In Saigon, a U.S. Navy petty officer was severely burned after two youths on a motorbike hurled a homemade bomb into his pickup truck outside Navy headquarters. It was the third firebombing of American vehicles there in five days.

Also in Saigon a group of disabled South Vietnamese veterans demonstrated in front of the U.S. Embassy for improved benefits, and a group called Catholics for Peace urged the removal of American "occupation troops" from Vietnam. No incidents were reported.

Field reports said five fire bombs were hurled at U.S. military police vehicles and trucks and cars belonging to American civilian contractors during a four-hour demonstration Monday night in Hue. About 90 Hue University students staged another demonstration this morning, U.S. officials said it was peaceful.

No American injuries were reported in the Hue demonstrations. The city was placed off limits to GIs.

U.S. officers said the disturbances were triggered by the fatal shooting of Bao Dung, 17, and the wounding of Pham Nhat, 13, who was in satisfactory condition with an arm wound in a Vietnamese hospital.

The officers said the youths allegedly tried to steal soft drinks or beer from the back of a truck driven by an American soldier whose name was not disclosed.

The U.S. Command in Saigon said the GI was in custody and an investigation was under way.

On the war front, South Vietnamese headquarters reported a series of small patrol clashes in the 13,500-man South Vietnamese flank of the demilitarized zone. It said 11 enemy were killed and 42 bunkers were destroyed. South Vietnamese losses were put at three killed and three wounded.

Also in the northern sector, the U.S. Command reported that an Army OH6 light observation helicopter was shot down between the A Shau Valley and the Laotian border. Two crewmen were wounded.

U.S. B52s flew a dozen more combat strikes below the DMZ, keeping up the daily raids against suspected North Vietnamese infiltration routes and base areas.

Reports from Vientiane said Laotian government forces had launched a major drive to recapture the town of Pak Song on the Bolovens Plateau in southern Laos. Fighting was described as intense, and field reports said North Vietnamese forces were holding the strategic town despite heavy U.S. and Laotian air strikes.

Wants Aid Cut in One-Man Election

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States should cut off military and economic aid to South Vietnam if necessary to force postponement of that country's one-man presidential election scheduled for Oct. 3, says an aide to Vietnamese Vice President Nguyen Cao Ky.

In an interview Monday, Dang Duc Khoi said popular resistance to a one-man election is already high in South Vietnam and "will become uncontrollable if the election is not postponed."

Khoi, serving as a special emissary from Ky, is trying to convince Nixon administration officials, members of Congress and others to use their influence in an effort to gain postponement of the election.

South Vietnamese President Nguyen Van Thieu is running unopposed for a second term.

Small Plant Is Set Up at Fulton

A new industry has been announced this week for Fulton, Arkansas. The name of this industry is Fulton Manufacturing Company, and the principals are Tom Bartlett, President and Joe Dickey, Secretary-Treasurer.

The Company is located in the Arnold Building in Fulton and will manufacture false ceiling beams and light fixtures for the Mobile Home Industry.

Arthur Storch, who handled the negotiations between the Company and Mayor Cecil Cox and his City Council of Fulton, states that the company will employ some 8 to 10 persons to start and hope to increase this amount to up to 40 within the very near future.

The Company signed a lease on the Arnold Building last week and expects to get started sometime during the week of September 13th, Mr. Storch said.

Trial Court Can Modify Sentence

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Deputy Atty. Gen. Rodney Parham said Monday that a trial court in some cases can modify the original sentence imposed on a defendant after the defendant has begun serving his sentence.

That opinion went to Correction Commissioner Don Hutto, who asked for the opinion after Circuit Court Judge Henry M. Britt of Hot Springs reduced the sentence of a Cummins Prison Farm inmate.

Britt reduced the sentence imposed on C. B. Harvey in July 1970 from seven to five years.

He said the step could be taken under Rule One of the Rules for Criminal Procedure adopted by the state Supreme Court.

Parham said the rule allowed a prisoner to file a petition on certain enumerated grounds and to have his sentence altered after the trial court makes certain findings.

Word of Warning, Just Don't Encourage That Youngster Too Much

NEW YORK (AP) — For those parents whose infant is just starting to mumble those first precious words, a warning: Don't encourage him too much.

Business, Labor Split on Program, President Calls in Farm Leaders

By MICHAEL J. REILLY
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon, after hearing business opposition to any post-freeze wage board without government participation, has called farm leaders in to discuss his economic program.

The President says he will consult with all concerned factions about what will follow the wage-price-rent freeze. He already has had separate sessions with labor and business leaders, and will meet with congressional representatives Friday.

Businessmen, who spent two hours in conference with Nixon Monday, rejected the position set forth last week by labor that anti-inflation controls be supervised by a board of labor, business and public representatives.

James Roche, chairman of the board of General Motors, told newsmen he and the 10 other business leaders who met with Nixon do not want such a nongovernment board.

George Meany, president of the AFL-CIO, meanwhile was telling the House Ways and Means Committee of his support for the tripartite panel. He also renewed his stand favoring an excess-profits tax and criticized most of Nixon's new tax proposals and plans for an investment tax credit renewal.

"The proposal before you," Meany said, "is a giant raid on the federal Treasury that would transfer billions of dollars in public funds into the private treasuries of big business."

Big business was given a note of caution Monday, when Secretary of the Treasury John B. Connally suggested businessmen not enter blindly into long-term contracts for goods and services to be delivered after the 90-day freeze ends.

"Parties that enter into such contracts," he said, "should do so with full regard both for the conditions created by the wage-price freeze now in effect and for any further steps that may be undertaken."

Tropical Storm Threat Subsides

MIAMI (AP) — Tropical storm threats to the Atlantic and Gulf coasts dissipated today as Heidi was absorbed into a wet low-pressure system off Nantucket and Edith floundered weakly across the shores of Mexico.

Whirling over cold waters of the North Atlantic, Heidi weakened rapidly during the night as she passed east of the Nantucket lightship.

The only dangerous storm remaining in the big parade off tropic seas was Hurricane Ginger but she was a threat only to shipping lanes 1,500 miles east of Washington, D.C., in the Atlantic. Her top winds were 100 mph.

A storm which had brought torrential rains and floods to the northeastern states piled off the Atlantic Coast during the night.

Water still lapped at curbs and doorsteps in rural towns as south Texas mopped up after Hurricane Fern. Early damage estimates placed her toll in the millions across the Texas coastal plains.

Opponents of Busing Close Fisher Plant

By STEPHEN WILDSTROM
Associated Press Writer

PONTIAC, Mich. (AP) — Several hundred pickets opposed to school busing for integration shut down General Motors' Fisher Body plant today in what they called a display of "political clout."

Demonstrators representing the National Action Group—NAG—paraded in front of plant gates as the 4,000-worker facility was due to open. Many workers congregated on sidewalks across the street from the plant, but few crossed.

Many of the workers who had entered the plant streamed back out, saying they had been sent home by plant officials. A General Motors spokesman said exact figures were not available but that less than half the day shift reported at 6 a.m.

The city's 76 school buses moved smoothly through Pontiac Monday as the second week of the desegregation program got rolling.

During the first four days of school last week, pickets from NAG tried unsuccessfully to halt the busing, and some were arrested.

Under the court-ordered busing plan, about 9,000 of the school district's some 24,000 pupils were to be sent to schools outside their neighborhoods. School officials said attendance for the first week was off about 25 per cent, as many parents kept their children at home.

Temperatures Vary Across the State

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Very dry air, which has been responsible for the large range in temperatures from early mornings into the afternoons, continues over Arkansas.

The mercury climbed from a cool 60 degrees early Monday in Little Rock to 96 by the middle of the afternoon and similar conditions existed over the entire state.

Temperatures this morning ranged from the upper 50s in the extreme northwest portion of the state to the mid and high 60s in other sections of the state. Lows tonight are forecast in the 60s to low 70s.

Highs today and Wednesday should be mostly in the low 90s. A fast moving cool front is expected to reach the northwest portion of the state by early Wednesday and move out of the state Wednesday night. Cooling Wednesday will probably be restricted to the northern sections of the state Wednesday, but should be more pronounced over the remainder of the state by Wednesday night and Thursday.

The air mass is expected to remain relatively dry ahead of the front but enough moisture should be available to produce some widely scattered thunder-shower activity Wednesday afternoon and evening.

Overnight lows include Fayetteville 57, Harrison 66, Jonesboro 64, Pine Bluff 67, Texarkana 67, El Dorado 61, Memphis 67, Little Rock 64 and Fort Smith 58.

No rainfall was reported during the 24-hour period ended at 7 a.m.

37 Dead, Order Returns to Prison; Full Scale Investigation Starts

ATTICA, N.Y. (AP) — The Monroe County medical examiner said today that all nine hostages killed at Attica State Prison during the four-day uprising died of gunshot wounds.

Dr. John F. Edland said, "There were no cut throats or any kind of mutilation."

The bodies of two more prisoners were found today, unofficial sources said, bringing the total dead to 40.

There was no immediate explanation of how the gunshots were fired, from where or by whom.

Uprising in Baltimore Jail Fails

BALTIMORE, Md. (AP) — About 200 inmates barricaded themselves in the City Jail cafeteria today and police forced them out with tear gas.

The men were returned to their cells. No injuries were reported.

The uprising occurred just one day after a rebellion was put down at a state prison in Attica, N.Y. where 37 persons were killed. Inmates there had held 38 persons hostage since Thursday.

According to Baltimore police, inmates took possession of the cafeteria about 7:15 and refused to come out.

Police said they moved with tear gas about one hour later. Some 50 police officers were reported at the scene with more standing by.

Police say the inmates had no hostages.

There were also unconfirmed reports of disorders at the Maryland Penitentiary in Baltimore.

Europeans Close Ranks on Dollar

BRUSSELS (AP) — Closing their ranks for negotiations with the United States, the six Common Market countries have agreed on a uniform monetary policy including a call for Washington to devalue the dollar.

The stand is expected to have considerable impact on Wednesday's meeting in London of the group of 10 leading industrial nations and the Sept. 27 meeting in Washington of the 118-member International Monetary Fund. The United States will take part in both conferences dealing with President Nixon's new economic policies.

Differences between France and West Germany had blocked previous attempts by the Common Market finance ministers to agree on a uniform policy.

The ministers' communique Monday night represented a compromise. The West German economic and finance minister, Karl Schiller, rejected an initial draft on grounds it was too elaborate and should be devoid of references to the dollar.

But the ministers made clear their intention regarding dollar devaluation when they called for a realignment of major world currencies, "including the dollar."

French satisfaction at the meeting's outcome was expressed by its finance minister, Valéry Giscard d'Estaing, who said: "It does not baffle a delegation to express its particular satisfaction by affirming that its thesis has won. But now it has become a community viewpoint."

The Common Market is composed of France, West Germany, Italy, the Netherlands, Belgium and Luxembourg.

But the ministers said "International liquidity should continue to be based on gold and to a growing extent on instruments collectively created and managed on an international scale. This implies adapting and developing a system of special drawing rights while decreasing gradually the importance of national currencies as reserve units."

Re-election of Rep. John Paul Hammerschmidt, R-Ark. — Winning a significant number of seats in the state legislature.

However, Bernard said some of the other younger potential candidates would be hard to beat for the position.

4 Choppers Shot Down, 5th Crashes

By GEORGE ESPER
Associated Press Writer

SAIGON (AP) — Four U.S. helicopters were shot down and a fifth crashed for unknown reasons in the Mekong Delta today. Anti-American sentiment provoked fresh demonstrations in Saigon and Hue.

The helicopter downings, on the edges of the U Minh Forest south of Saigon, marked the highest number of U.S. choppers reported shot down in one day during an operation since the Laotian drive last February.

Associated Press correspondent Richard Blystone reported from the field that initial reports listed no U.S. casualties.

In Saigon a U.S. Navy petty officer was severely burned when two youths on motorbikes hurled a homemade bomb into his pickup truck outside Navy headquarters.

It was one of four fire bombings in the South Vietnamese capital but the only one to cause injury. At least two vehicles were damaged, the U.S. Command reported.

GOPs May Not Run Candidate for Governor

EARLE, Ark. (AP) — The Republican party may not have a gubernatorial candidate next year if Gov. Dale Bumpers decides to run for re-election and appears invulnerable.

Charles Bernard of Earle, the chairman of the state Republican party, said it would be "foolish to contend for the sake of contention."

If Bumpers "seems unbeatable, I see no reason to knock our heads against a stone wall," Bernard said.

Bernard said in an interview that the party's priorities for next year were:

—Carrying the state for President Nixon.

—Re-election of Rep. John Paul Hammerschmidt, R-Ark.

—Winning a significant number of seats in the state legislature.

Bernard said he hoped to be able to win "five or six seats in the House and three to four in the Senate."

Some Housing Contracts Investigated

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Robert Hankins, state Federal Housing Administration director, said Monday that an investigation is being conducted in several East Arkansas counties into housing contracts.

Hankins said auditors from the Government Accounting Office were checking reports that the FHA had shown preference in some counties to certain building contractors, lawyers and insurance agents on houses under the home-loan program.

The program is designed to allow low-income persons move from rented houses to their own homes.

The auditors said they were also investigating complaints that some of the houses and building materials did not meet FHA standards.

The team was sent to Arkansas after Rep. Bill Alexander, D-Ark., said he had received complaints from people in his district about FHA standards.

Hankins said he had the "utmost faith" in the FHA county administrators. He said the audit gave the FHA a chance to "assure the public that we are not doing anything wrong."

Reaction to Bloody Prison Deal Varied

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Public officials, penologists and private citizens reacting to the bloody end of the inmate insurrection at Attica Prison have divided sharply over whether the use of force was necessary.

President Nixon, in a telephone conversation with Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller, expressed support for the governor's response to the four day rebellion that ended with nine hostages and 28 inmates killed.

Nixon particularly supported Rockefeller's refusal to grant the prisoner's demand for complete amnesty for any criminal acts committed during the uprising, aides to the two men said.

One authority on prisons, Dr. Vernon Fox, who once spent four days "talking down" a riot at Michigan State Prison, charged that new York officials mishandled the situation.

"What happened at Attica was despicable," said Fox, now a criminologist at Florida State University. He called the move "an appalling massacre."

"The state was legitimizing murder," he said. "There was no reason to kill anybody. Another 24 hours of talking wouldn't have done any harm and it might have saved the lives of 28 inmates and nine guards."

"The primary reason for the use of force is always to create an image for the public," said Fox, author of "Violence Behind Bars." "Introduction to Correction" and the forthcoming "When Prisoners Riot."

Mayor Kenneth A. Gibson of Newark said, "The use of coordinated, organized violence in overcoming the inmates at Attica State Prison stands as one of the most callous and blatantly repressive acts ever carried out by a supposedly civilized society on its own people."

"When we look at prison conditions and the brutal use of force at Attica we see the same faces of racism which caused and then put down with force civil disturbances in this country's ghettos," he said.

Rockefeller's action won the support of many fellow governors who commented at their annual conference in San Juan, Puerto Rico.

Gov. Preston Smith of Texas said, "If they had a couple days and could not reach a solution, responsible law enforcement people had no alternative."

Ohio Gov. John J. Gilligan said, "There is no way you can parley with people on the basis of their holding hostages. It is important to move in early and with overwhelming force."

"They should have moved the first day to stop it," said Gov. David Hall of Oklahoma.

High Court Refuses to Reduce Bond

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—The state Supreme Court refused to reduce the bond set for Bobby Joe Harrington on a charge of possession of stolen property.

Bond originally was set at $40,000 but was reduced by Circuit Court Judge Richard B. Adkisson to $20,000.

Harrington was seeking a further reduction Monday.

Harrington's attorney, H. Alan Dishongh, said that during the current year Harrington had made bonds totaling between $35,000 and $40,000 on three charges in Arkansas and Missouri before the bond was set on the new charge.

The new charge stems from the arrest of Harrington at a Little Rock restaurant. Dishongh said Harrington was free on $10,000 bond on charges of burglary and possession of burglary tools filed in connection with that arrest.

Three Little Rock policemen were fired after Harrington and James M. Sipes, of North Little Rock, claimed that the policemen beat them during their arrest at the restaurant.

Hector, a Grand Old Alligator, Sent Away But He Returns Home

VENICE, Fla. (AP)—Hector, a grand old alligator, was trucked from his lakefront home to a spot 140 miles away two years ago when his human neighbors got leery of swimming with a 300-pound reptile.

Hector was on hand six years ago when Paul Trier built the first home on Lake LaGorce in this Gulf Coast community about 70 miles south of Tampa.

The Triers and Hector got along famously, but soon other homes began to dot the lake and the new residents grew wary of the thick-skinned pioneer.

So one day Hector found himself bundled in a Game and Fresh Water Fish Commission truck and on his way to Myakka State Park.

Recently, however, Trier said he heard a familiar bellow on the lake and went to investigate.

"There was Hector calling to us, just as he used to when we were late with his breakfast. He came swimming toward me, pushing a large wave under his chin."

"I'll swear he was as excited to see me as I was to see him," said Trier.

Trier is sure the old gator, estimated to be in his mid-60s, is the same old Hector.

The two worked out a break-fast ritual years ago. At first Trier coaxed him with dog food and then began feeding him marshmallows from a wooden spoon.

When Trier was late with the goodies, Hector voiced his displeasure with a most authoritative roar.

The same roar is heard now until Trier floats a dog food-smeared piece of bread out to the hungry reptile.

After wolfing down the soggy repast, the gator whips into his old snoozing nook beneath Trier's dock. He even swims in close for an occasional pat on the head.

Hector's return to the Sarasota County lake was something of an Everglades odyssey. He had to fight swamps, thickets and drainage most of the way.

And while the return was Herculean, his manners best be timid.

Donald Love, Sarasota County wildlife officer for the game commission, said Hector probably can stay "unless the complaints get pretty strenuous."

Then its off to Myakka again.

Says Testimony Should Acquit Capt. Medina

By KATHRYN JOHNSON
Associated Press Writer
FT. MC PHERSON, Ga. (AP)—Defense attorney F. Lee Bailey says the testimony of a former rifleman at My Lai should assure Capt. Ernest L. Medina of acquittal of one murder charge.

In dramatic testimony Monday, Gene Ralph Oliver Jr., of Ft. Lauderdale, Fla., said he shot and killed a boy near My Lai on March 16, 1968, and that his commander, Medina, did not order the shooting.

"I saw a movement—a human form—and raised my weapon and fired," said the blond, side-burned Oliver, now a carpet layer. He said the child fell near a pile of bodies.

He realized "immediately thereafter," he said, that his victim was a child, when another soldier yelled, "It's only a kid."

Then Oliver said he heard Medina yell, "Goddamit, cease fire."

Medina, 35, of Montrose, Colo., is charged with premeditated murder in the death of the boy. The Army contends he ordered the child shot.

The dark-haired infantry captain also is charged with the premeditated murder of 100 other Vietnamese civilians when troops under his command assaulted the South Vietnamese hamlet. The Army says Medina is responsible for their deaths because he failed to stop his troops from shooting.

In addition, he is charged with shooting a Vietnamese woman in a rice paddy and with assault of a suspected Viet Cong during an interrogation.

"I hope we took the little boy off Medina's back," Bailey told newsmen after Oliver's testimony.

WORD OF WARNING

who can't quite get going until after the second cup of coffee you may not enjoy these post-revile games of "20 questions." And how many different ways can you explain those dribbles of blood on your chin.

If the questions aren't enough, the second part of the little one's vocabulary usually is a demand. His first full sentence may well be: "I want that!" again with a gesturing hand that may indicate any number of things, or nothing at all he could conceivably want.

The "What's at?" and the "I want" may alternate so fast you can't remember whether you're explaining something or fending off his latest demand.

Father may think it is tough enough to stand the brunt of these elementary conversations during his limited time at home, but mother gets it full time.

And those wondrous moments of relief, nap time or bedtime, don't come as easily anymore because now this talking, reasoning little creature must be given the opportunity to express his desires on such matters. It's a lucky mother who can get a yes to a question like, "Do you want to go to bed?"

Positive answers are slow in developing in the newly talking tyke, but "no" comes early and increases in frequency. It is usually about this time that parents find themselves using the same word more frequently in their dealings with their spring.

Which makes you wonder, who is teaching the language to whom?

Sen. McGovern Escape Rocks, Fire Bombs

SAIGON (AP)—Sen. George McGovern, D-S.D., escaped shaken but unhurt tonight from a barrage of rocks and fire bombs hurled against a church where he was meeting with a group of students and political dissenters.

McGovern and several associates were trapped inside the Roman Catholic church office for about 30 minutes. They were rescued by U.S. military police and embassy Marine guards summoned to the scene.

The identity of the rock and fire-bomb throwers was not established, but one witness described them as "Cowboys," youthful riders who roam Saigon on motorbikes.

Vietnamese combat police and soldiers sealed off several city blocks around the church.

Conway Has Tea Colored Water

CONWAY, Ark. (AP)—Conway area residents will begin to get tea-colored water, but officials have assured the residents that the water is harmless and will not have an unpleasant odor.

James H. Brewer, manager of the Conway Corp., which operates the city water and electric systems, said Monday that dead algae is discoloring the water.

He said the city had one of the finest treatment plants in the state, but the plant does not have the capacity to handle the built-up algae problem.

Brewer said that the algae began to form in Cadron Creek when a higher weir was built because the Arkansas River navigation project made the water level higher. He said the algae began forming in shallow areas.

Wanted Convict Recaptured

FORT WAYNE, Ind. (AP)—William Earle Goudy, 34, who failed to return to Cummins Prison Farm, Ark., on May 31, 1970, was captured by FBI agents here Monday.

Goudy had been granted an emergency furlough from the prison and did not return. He was serving a life sentence from Crittenden County for first-degree murder.

A spokesman for the FBI said that Goudy and his wife had been living in Gary, Ind., but were in Fort Wayne attempting to locate relatives.

Both Sides See Victory on Busing

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Both supporters and opponents of busing are claiming victory after more than 40 per cent of the public school pupils missed classes on the opening day of a mass busing for integration program.

San Francisco is the nation's largest city operating under a court-ordered busing plan.

No figures will be available until later in the week on how many of the 26,000 students assigned to be bused actually rode them Monday, officials said.

The school district reported 29,325 children attended classes Monday. 58.6 per cent of an estimated 50,000 enrollment. Normal first day attendance is 90 per cent.

Bob Jacobs, cochairman of an antibusing coalition called WALK (We all Love Kids), disputed many district attendance figures and estimated 64 per cent were absent in the integrated kindergarten through sixth grade classes.

A busing opponent called attendance figures evidence of "the most effective boycott against forced busing in any major city."

School district officials called the first day a success and predicted many children who stayed away Monday would be in class soon.

Officials said there was no violence, not even any first-day fist fights. Picketing was light.

Says Bass, Firm Used as Scapegoat

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—A jury of seven women and five men heard the attorney for Harry C. Bass Jr., 57, of St. Louis, president and principal owner of the Selb Manufacturing Co., state that Bass and his company was being used as a scapegoat.

Bass is the fourth defendant to come to trial on charges of conspiring to conceal defects in parts made by Selb for the F-111 swing-wing fighter-bomber.

General Dynamics Corp. of Fort Worth, Tex., is the prime contractor for the swing-wing jet. It subcontracted the manufacturing of some parts to Selb, which had a plant in Walnut Ridge and was associated with Baldes Manufacturing Co. of Rector and Aircraft Engineering Corp. of Pochontas. All three plants worked on the subcontracted parts.

Bass is principal owner of all three plants. Only the Blades plant is still in operation.

Federal Judge J. Smith Henley said the trial would resume at 9 a.m. Tuesday.

The government has charged that seven persons had conspired to place serial numbers of acceptable F-111 parts on parts they knew to be defective. The government also said that the seven had falsified records to make the parts acceptable.

James L. Townley of Hurst, Tex., a former General Dynamics quality assurance supervisor assigned to the Selb plant, was acquitted in February of charges linking him to the alleged conspiracy.

Melvin C. Davis of Walnut Ridge, former manager of the Selb plant, and Kenneth W. Hunn of Pochontas, former vice president in charge of manufacturing for Selb, Blades and Aircraft Engineering, both pleaded no contest to the charges in April. The two men have not been sentenced yet.

Bass' attorney, Robert V. Light, said Bass and his company were being used as scapegoats to hide General Dynamics' inefficient records system.

"This controversy is not about parts," he said, "it's about paperwork."

Light said that when the project began, it was the policy of General Dynamics when it found a flaw in a part to hold onto that part and send for a description of the part. Then, Light said, the company would decide whether or not to go ahead and use the part.

Light said that the form for the defective part was a "supplier's inspection rejection report" (SIR).

He said that General Dynamics said that the parts were so difficult to manufacture and it was getting so many SIRs that General Dynamics told Selb to ship the parts to Fort Worth and forget the SIRs."

Assistant U.S. Atty. Sid McCollum said that the government would prove that Bass knowingly shipped defective parts to General Dynamics.

Futhermore, McCollum said that Selb officials began sending back parts that already had been rejected by General Dynamics, changing the serial numbers to escape detection.

"He (Bass) approved it, condoned it and in many cases directly ordered it to be done."

Only two witnesses testified Monday.

James R. Smith of Fort Worth, an Air Force civilian employee who administers the Air Force's contract with General Dynamics was called on to introduce the contract between the company and the Air Force.

Alvin Thompson of Fort Worth, a project coordinator for General Dynamics, said that the quality control provisions contracted to General Dynamics were passed on to subcontractors.

The United States and NATO first sought negotiations on trimming back these forces in 1968, but the Soviet Union showed no interest until last spring when Soviet communist party leader Leonid Brezhnev proposed talks.

Although Washington responded positively to the Russian move, the United States has yet to say officially it wants an actual reduction in European troop strength at this time.

A State Department source said it is entirely possible Nixon might decide against negotiating a troop cut, a position advanced by some U.S. military experts who are said to fear upsetting the East-West armed balance.

Other alternatives said to be under presidential consideration deal with the size of any reduction should Nixon decide to go ahead.

No Decision on European Troop Cuts

WASHINGTON (AP)—The administration's deadline for disclosing a negotiating position on an East-West troop cut in Central Europe is just three weeks away but President Nixon still has not decided to seek any reductions, government officials say.

Sources in the State Department and the Pentagon are repeating earlier statements that an American position on "mutual balanced force reduction," as it is known, will be ready when the North Atlantic Treaty Organization deputy foreign ministers meet in Brussels Oct. 5-6.

But "we don't yet have a firm negotiating stand," a State Department official said, adding "the subject is still being studied."

This does not mean there is any serious dispute in the administration, officials in both departments said. They indicated reduction is a very complicated matter and needs careful consideration.

"This is particularly true," one government official explained, "because there are 14 NATO allies to consider as well as Moscow and the Warsaw Pact."

Another source said consultations with Russia and its East European allies indicate some progress on that side "but at this time we are further along on a talking position than the Soviets."

At issue are 1.1 million NATO troops in Western Europe, including 300,000 Americans, and about 1.23 million Warsaw Pact troops.

GIRLS TALK... Your vacation has done you good if it did nothing more than make you glad to be back home once again.

Have you noticed how lovely the girls look on the magazine covers? Maybe once again we will all want to look like a picture. It has been a long time, baby!

Most stripes do not shorten a person...in spite of what you may think, but they do cover a few bulges now and then. Take a closer look at yourself in stripes, they do things for you.

If you are past fifty, wear the stand-up or half-turtle-neck. Kathryn Hepburn made them famous when she played "Coco". Neck wrinkles simply need to be covered up... The best thing about early shopping is the choice you get. And if you are going to buy a winter coat anyway, might as well get the prettiest one...they are just as warm.

Navy used to be a no-no for Fall. Spring was the only season for it until somebody decided it looked elegant with bright autumn colors and now it is all over the lot. Accented with white, too!

Television and Radio

NEW YORK (AP) — NBC's "Laugh-In" returned Monday night for its fifth season—a lot of people had said it couldn't keep up its furious comedy pace for one.

This time, there where some signs of fatigue, or maybe age. The pace has slowed to a walk. The format is basically unchanged but the elements of surprise and enthusiasm seem diminished. It is still a mixed bag of sight gags, blackouts, one line jokes, all hung around the conventional team comedy of Dan Rowan and Dick Martin.

The opening show had the assistance of Raquel Welch, whose revealing décolletage was the most remarkable aspect of her performance—and Martha Mitchell, wife of the U.S. attorney general.

Mrs. Mitchell, who tended to giggle, was provided with an assortment of dismal gags designed to tie into her Washington image. Asked when she thought Supreme Court justices should retire, she replied: "About 9 o'clock in the morning—just before court is open." Replying to a question about her husband's reaction to her activity, she replied, "John and I have an understanding—I don't tell him how to run the Justice Department and he doesn't tell me how to run the rest of the world." It sounded more like something from a comedy writer's typewriter than native Mitchell wit.

The producers of "Laugh-In" later in the evening showed a pilot program for a sort of global "Laugh-In." Called "It's a Wacky World," the hour jumped around Europe, the United States and Mexico with short segments demonstrating various types of humor. It was punctuated with pie-in-the-face and prat falls and some sequences added up to nothing. One such had Tony Curtis wandering around London asking how to get to the Palladium.

THE GENERATION RAP

—by Helen and Sue Bottel

"WHO AM I?" DOES ANYONE KNOW?

Dear Sue and Helen: Maybe the two of you can give me a new look at myself—sort of from both sides of the fence.

My problem is I've been a big put-on all my life. I try to be friends with everyone, and it looks (to others) that I'm successful, but instead, I'm getting lonelier and farther away every day.

Last year I wanted to be a long-hair, so I smoked grass, but didn't like it, and quit. Those guys still consider me a friend. Next, I went to the straight kids, ran for student council president and won. That's because people think I'm "popular." You see, I'm into sports and was football captain last year.

I finally woke up to find I have no true friends and am not as great as I thought. I just go from one group to another, "bulling" it through like a con artist. Life has always come to easy for me. I get what I want but it isn't honest, and someday I'll be found out. For the first time I'm realizing what a phony I am and I'm sick of myself.

I'd like to start over again, but how can you when you've acted so long you don't know if there is a real person under all that "scenery"?—DON

Dear Don: Welcome to the group! You aren't as unusual as you think.

It's hard not to try making a different impression on different kinds of people because most humans are part chameleon too. We change the "color" of our personalities to suit the persons we're with at the time. So you're "longhair" with the longhairs, and "straight" with the straights because you want to be liked—and who doesn't?

How to start over? Figure out where you really stand and don't be afraid to speak your mind. Sure, you'll lose a few acquaintances, but you'll gain true friends—kids who have their heads straight (both longhair and not)—and they'll help you away from being a politician.—SUE

HELEN SAYS:
Dear Don: Perhaps you're putting yourself down too much. When things have always come so easily, we tend to feel guilty.

As Sue says, "We're all part chameleon." But the wise ones recognize this weakness early. Now that you've asked, "Who am I?" I think you'll soon uncover the basic Don—the boy who'd rather stand up for what he believes than be "everybody's pal" but nobody's friend.

The longhairs made you probe more deeply than usual, right? So you swung over to the safer straights, and some of THEIR standards didn't jibe either. Possibly you thought that making council president would put you right with both groups, but it only confused you more, for a leader is often loneliest of all. . . People don't get close because they're either scared or envious. He must work doubly hard to show he's human: truly interested in others and not just in pushing himself out front.

I doubt you'll have much trouble finding "the real person behind all that scenery." You've hit the honest button early. Congratulations!—HELEN

Dear Sue: All this Women's Lib talk leaves us high school girls cold. How about you?—STUDENT

Dear Student: Ditto! In high school, girls are trying to GET the guy, not fight him! After we marry, it's time enough to think of Liberation.—SUE

NOTE FROM HELEN:
Gloria Steinem will hate you,

Miss America Is Going to Vietnam

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) — Miss America of 1972 says she plans to make a trip to Vietnam to entertain American troops, but she hopes the fighting will be over before she has to go.

Laurie Lea Schaefer, who won her crown Saturday night, said she thinks President Nixon is doing a good job to end the Southeast Asian conflict.

"He should be allowed to follow his program because he knows a lot more about it than the majority of normal citizens," the 22-year-old Bexley, Ohio, beauty said Sunday.

Miss Schaefer said she didn't get to sleep until 5:30 Sunday morning, and although she held her first news conference as the nation's reigning beauty queen a scant four hours later, she didn't look tired.

At the news conference after a week of showing off her singing ability and beauty, Miss America got a chance to air her views.

She said she was a conservative in politics, fashion and morals, and that most young people shared her views.

On a wide range of topics, Miss America said:

—She likes conservative clothes and doesn't own a pair of blue jeans;

—Premarital sex is not for her;

—Miss America contestants support women's liberation by being outspoken and intelligent; the pageant helps women develop their goals.

The new Miss America has auburn hair, is 5-foot-7 and has a 36-24-36 figure.

Susie, but according to my mail, you speak for most high school girls.—H

No. 19 May Soon Be Back in Action

By TED MEIER

Associated Press Sports Writer

Old No. 19 is expected to return to action sooner than expected in the National Football League in an effort to perk up the Super Bowl champion Baltimore Colts.

Old No. 19 is veteran quarterback Johnny Unitas who coach Don McCafferty said "probably will be activated" for the Colts NFL opener against the New York Jets Sunday.

Unitas ruptured his right Achilles tendon while playing paddle ball during the off-season. He underwent an operation and it was thought he would not be able to play until the middle of the NFL season.

However the sagging fortunes of the Colts during the exhibition schedule brought a change in plans.

"John has been going along fine in practice, taking his regular turn for the past couple of weeks," McCafferty said. "He probably will be activated, but Earl Morrall will start against the Jets."

The disclosure that Unitas likely will see action in the Colts' opener highlighted the NFL activities Monday, the deadline for the 26 clubs to get down to the 40-player limit for the regular season.

Several teams, including the Colts, the Cleveland Browns, the New York Giants and the Jets said they would not announce all their cuts until today after they have notified NFL headquarters.

The Minnesota Vikings, Chicago Bears, St. Louis Cardinals, Philadelphia Eagles, San Francisco 49ers, Oakland Raiders, Buffalo Bills and the Giants figured in several trades. The Vikings were the most active. They traded quarterback Bill Cappelman to Philadelphia for a future draft choice and dealt linebacker Mike McGill, defensive back Dale Hackbart and a future draft choice to St. Louis for tight end Bob Brown and defensive back Nate Wright.

The Bears traded center Bob Hyland and defensive back Bennie McRae to the Giants for the latter's 1972 No. 1 draft choice. The Bears also acquired running back Cyril Pinder from the Eagles for two undisclosed draft choices and traded a 1973 draft choice to the 49ers for running back Bill Tucker.

Oakland traded running back Ted Koy to the Bills for an undisclosed future draft choice.

Broyles Says OSU Best in Years

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. (AP) — Coach Frank Broyles said Monday that the University of Arkansas Razorbacks will face the "best OSU team we have faced by far in ability and execution," Saturday.

"They used the spread, wing and motions formations last week, they used them all," Broyles said. He told the team Monday that they had to prepare for at least 20 different formations from Oklahoma State University.

Prior to Monday's practice the Razorbacks watched films of last Saturday's victory over the University of California. The Razorbacks defeated California 51-20.

"The films showed that we had a real good team effort," said Broyles.

Porks Rated No. 6 in Grid Poll

By BEN THOMAS

Associated Press Sports Writer

Nebraska's back on top and Coach Bob Devaney says it's a nice feeling.

But he's still more concerned about the end of the college football season ... not the beginning.

The Cornhuskers, following their 34-7 conquest of Oregon last Saturday, vaulted past Notre Dame Monday in the first weekly Associated Press poll. It was the same position that Nebraska held at the end of the 1970 campaign, following their Orange Bowl triumph.

"It's nice to be No. 1 but it doesn't mean much at this stage," Devaney said in Lincoln, Neb., where his team is preparing for Saturday's game with Minnesota.

Notre Dame was No. 1 in the preseason rankings and Irish Coach Ara Parseghian let it be known then he didn't give a hoot about polls until the end of the season. He wasn't available for comment Monday. Notre Dame was idle last Saturday, opening this weekend at South Bend, Ind., against Northwestern.

Nebraska garnered 31 first-place votes from the nationwide panel of sports writers and sportscasters. Notre Dame got 10 votes for No. 1 with five going to third-ranked Texas and a pair each to No. 4 Michigan and No. 7 Auburn. The Cornhuskers got 931 points to 829 for Notre Dame.

Devaney called his team's showing against Oregon "as fine an opening game as we have ever had since I've been at Nebraska."

At Minneapolis, Coach Murray Warmath of Minnesota said his scouts concur with the consensus.

"They deserve to be rated No. 1," said the coach whose team tangles next with Nebraska. "All they have to do now is show it on the field."

After Nebraska, Notre Dame,

John Miller Moves Up Moneywise

NEW YORK (AP) — John Miller, winner of the $100,000 Southern Open at Columbus, Ga., over the weekend jumped from 30th to 16th place on the golf money list, the PGA Tournament Players Division reported Monday.

The $20,000 first-prize check boosted Miller's earnings to $77,446.

The money earned by Charles Coody, Jack Nicklaus, Bruce Crampton and Lee Trevino in the World Series of Golf did not count in official PGA earnings because of the limited field.

Robison in 500th Homer of Career

By KEN RAPPOPORT

Associated Press Sports Writer

It flew through the air with the greatest of ease and rattled in the left field ghostland.

The ball wasn't hit as well as he would have liked and there weren't many to witness its historic flight, but Frank Robison will nevertheless take the 500th home run of his career.

"I thought about standing there and watching it, or doing cart wheels or shaking hands," said the Baltimore Orioles' star after belting No. 500 Monday night off Detroit's Fred Scherman and joining an exclusive club with only 10 other members.

Robison didn't do any of those things, but he did clap hands as he circled the bases with his two-run clout in the ninth before a few faithful fans who remained to see the Orioles drop a 10-5 decision to Detroit in the second game of a two-night doubleheader.

Robison had belted No. 499 in the first game as Baltimore won 9-1 and moved closer to clinching the American League's Eastern Division pennant.

The Oakland A's stopped the Kansas City Royals 2-1 in 11 innings and neared a clinching in the West. The A's, who haven't won a title since capturing the American League pennant as the Philadelphia Athletics in 1931, cut the magic number to two games and can win it tonight with a victory over the Royals.

Elsewhere in the American League Monday night, the Chicago White Sox trimmed the Milwaukee Brewers 6-3; the New York Yankees topped the Boston Red Sox 4-0 and California beat Minnesota 3-2 in the first game of a doubleheader before losing a 1-0 decision to the Twins in the nightcap. Rain washed out Washington at Cleveland.

The crowd of 13,000 at Memorial Stadium had considerably thinned by the time Robinson stepped to the plate in the last inning of the second game.

"I didn't blame them for leaving," said Robinson, referring to the lopsided score and the six hours of baseball.

Scherman then jammed the brawny right fielder with a pitch, but Robinson managed to pull it into the stands.

"I didn't think I had enough on it," said Robinson, "but it should have been easy to catch because it came down like a parachute."

The ball was caught by a young fan, who returned it to Robinson to exchange for another ball and a bat, both autographed.

"I'm not very sentimental about keeping things," said Robinson, "but I do want to keep this ball."

Oakland just about cinched the West with its victory over the runnerup Royals as Jim "Catfish" Hunter joined Vida Blue as the A's second 20-game winner.

"I feel like I'm a pitcher now that I've won 20," said Hunter, "winning 20 is always a pitcher's dream. This game is worth more to me in every way than the perfect game I threw in 1968."

Rick Monday knocked in the winning run with an 11th-inning single to break up a duel between Hunter and Kansas City's Al Fitzmorris.

Rick Reichardt drove in five runs with a pair of homers and Rich Morales added a solo homer to pace the Chicago White Sox.

Stan Bahnsen fired a three-hitter and blanked Boston for the third time this season as New York beat the Red Sox. Mickey Rivers doubled, singled and scored twice as California took Minnesota in the opener and Steve Braun slugged a home run and Jim Kaat scattered nine hits as the Twins took the second game.

Hope B Team Defeated by Magnolia

By BILL MOORE

Star Sports Writer

Although leading at halftime, 7-6, the Hope B-Bruins were plagued by costly errors and various penalties, and fell victim to the Magnolia Panther B-team, 27-7, before a light crowd.

Hope kicked off to Magnolia at the Panther 30 yard line, but on the first play from scrimmage, a fumble resulted in a B-Bruin recovery by Jack Turner at the 36.

An offside penalty on Hope pushed the ball back to the 41 and on the next play Magnolia again had possession of the ball after a Bruin fumble.

Holding Magnolia at bay on the next three plays, Hope took the Panthers punt at their own 38, but a fumble on the first play again gave Magnolia excellent field position with about six minutes left in the quarter.

After losing two yards on the next two plays, Magnolia quarterback Todd Brown hit Charlie Williams with a 44 yard touchdown pass. Although the extra point was no good, the Panthers held a 6-0 lead with 5:16 left in the quarter.

Receiving the kickoff at the 20 yard line the B-Bruins started a drive up to and over the 50 yard line before it was killed at the Magnolia 47 on downs.

An exchange of the ball a few times while moving into the second quarter gave Hope the ball at their own 49 yard line with 8:37 left in the first half.

With quarterback Robie Boyd moving the team and throwing two perfect passes to flanker Gary Rhodes, for 14 and 28 yards each, the Bruins moved to the Panthers one yard line before being penalized five yards for offside.

After two incomplete passes, Magnolia intercepted and had just moved to their own 15 yard line when Levester Stuart stole a Panther pass at the 27 and ran it back down to the nine before being tackled.

Sitting with a first and goal at the nine, Boyd hit end Tim Hogan with a nine yard scoring toss on the first play and after Buddy Ingram sailed the extra point through the uprights, Hope's B-Bruins led, 7-6, with 4:51 left in the half.

For the rest of the half neither team could get anything going on offense, letting the defense do the work.

Taking the second half kickoff, the B-Bruins went only three yards and after punting, saw Magnolia start from 56 yards out and take the pigskin in for a score in just three plays. Having failed on the extra point attempt the Panthers still held a 12-7 lead.

Less than two minutes later, Magnolia had scored again on a 15 yard scamper by Ray Williamson. Browns run for the two points was successful for a 20-7 Magnolia lead with 4:29 left in the third quarter.

With the Bruins not able to get their offense untracked in the second half, the field position became poorer and as a result Magnolia only had to go a little over 30 yards for their last score, coming on a six yard run with 5:33 left in the game. After being penalized 15 yards, Magnolia's Paul Barnes kicked the extra point from about 22 yards out.

Its Still the Giants, Dodgers

By BRUCE LOWITT

Associated Press Sports Writer

"It was just the Giants and Dodgers," Charlie Fox shrugged. "It's always been that way."

It was that way 20 years ago when the Giants called the Polo Grounds in New York their home, the Dodgers caroused barely 10 miles away at Ebbets Field in Brooklyn and fans called their pennant race one of history's greatest.

And it's still that way although the Giants have moved to the windswept Candlestick Park in San Francisco and the Dodgers bask in the Los Angeles sun 350 miles away.

"That way" is the call-em-every-dirty-name-in-the-book, stomp-on-em-when-they're-down, get-away-with-all-the-murder-you-can, don't-turn-your-back-on-em way—and that's the way they played it Monday night—although played is hardly the right word. Anyway, the Dodgers won 5-4.

And fans are calling this pennant race one of the great ones. In 1951 it was the Giants who came on like gangbusters to catch the Dodgers, then beat them in the playoffs on Bobby Thomson's incredible home run, the "shot heard 'round the world."

Now it's the Dodgers' turn—and they've turned what barely a week ago seemed like a boring, let's-get-the-schedule-over-with season into sheer bedlam.

They've won seven in a row and 12 games in 14 while the Giants have lost eight of nine. An 8½-game San Francisco lead in the National League West has dwindled to two—and the collision at Candlestick is only half over.

Elsewhere in the National League, Pittsburgh opened a 6½-game lead over St. Louis in the East, beating the Chicago Cubs 5-1 while Philadelphia was beating the Cardinals 6-5 in 10 innings, Houston edged San Diego 3-2, Cincinnati slipped by Atlanta 2-1 in 13 innings and the New York Mets beat Montreal 4-2 in a rain-shortened five-inning contest.

Two-run homers by Richie Allen and Willie Davis and a solo shot by Willie Crawford gave the Dodgers all their runs while Jim Ray Hart had a round-trip for the Giants—but that's only technical stuff.

What really happened is that Bill Singer of Los Angeles and Juan Marichal of San Francisco staged a beanball war, Billy Buckner tried to talk to Marichal on the mound with a bat in his hand and the umpires decided several players would be better off outasight ... of each other.

"The wind blew me all over the place early in the game," said Singer, who hit Willie Mays and Chris Speler with pitches. "I was just trying to throw strikes. It was obvious I wasn't trying to hit anyone."

Nevertheless, Marichal bunched Singer back twice in the next inning, the fifth, then repeated the act with the next batter, Maury Wills, and finally hit Buckner with a fast ball.

"I just went out to talk with him," said Buckner, who had to be restrained when he rushed the Giants' ace right-hander. "I don't need a bat to handle him but I couldn't lift my arm after being hit and I needed the bat in case somebody wanted to take a swing at me."

Players from both teams poured onto the field, and although no punches were thrown, it took the umpires quite a while to remind them that the idea was to play ball, not brawl.

When the game resumed Buckner, Marichal and Giants pitcher Jerry Johnson, who charged home plate Umpire Shag Crawford, were out of it.

And except for the fact that it was only the second time the Dodgers had beaten Marichal in 23 Candlestick decisions, it was your average baseball game.

And they play another one tonight.

Willie Stargell of the Pirates snapped a scoreless tie with his 45th homer in the seventh inning before the Bucs pulled away as Steve Blass recorded his 14th victory with a five-hitter.

Milt May's single and Jackie Hernandez' triple netted Pittsburgh another run in the seventh and Bob Robertson's two-run single capped a three-run eighth that finished off the Cubs.

Tuesday, September 14, 1971

The Cardinals couldn't stop Phillies rookie Willie Montanez, who belted two home runs including the game-winner in the 10th inning. His two-run shot in the seventh tied the game after Joe Torre, the major league leader in runs-batted in, drove in three to help St. Louis to a 5-3 lead.

San Diego's Clay Kirby pitched 7 1-3 hitless innings, lost his no-hitter on Johnny Edwards' double that started the Astros' game-tying two-run eighth, then lost the game in the ninth as Cesar Cedeno raced home from second on Garry Jestadt's error at third base.

Mike Jorgensen gave the Mets all the runs they needed in the first inning against the Expos, following Ed Kranepool's RBI single with a homer over the center field wall.

Hanging Out the College Grid Wash

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON

Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Hanging out the college football wash: The local Nielsen ratings are in for Saturday night's Grambling-Morgan State game, the first game between predominantly black teams ever carried on national network television.

According to an ABC-TV spokesman, the game attracted 560,000 viewers a minute and a rating of 9.0 in New York. By comparison, last year's opening telecast between Stanford and Arkansas averaged 520,000 a minute and 8.7 and the Mississippi-Alabama night game rated out at 340,000 and 5.7.

National ratings won't be in for a few weeks.

On the way home from the 1970 opener with Arkansas, the Stanford team stopped off in Las Vegas and took in a dinner show starring Buddy Hackett. This year's trip is a little less glamorous.

The Indians flew into New York Sunday morning and were greeted by a day of rain. They left Monday for Bear Mountain, a few miles from West Point, to prepare for Saturday's game with Army and ran into another wet day.

Doug Adams, a Stanford guard, recovered from serious knee surgery and enjoyed a fine season in 1970. Adams was looking forward to the Army game since his father, a retired officer, helped schedule the contest some years back when he was athletic director at the Military Academy. Adams' parents drove across the United States from Carmel, Calif., to see their son play.

But the 230-pounder suffered a knee injury against Missouri last Saturday and is through for the season.

Coach J. Carlen of Texas Tech and quarterback John Reeves of Florida were more than willing to shoulder the blame for their team's opening game setbacks.

Tech missed an extra point, a 25-yard field goal attempt and had a punt blocked at its five-yard line and turned into the winning touchdown by Tulane.

"This was the first time I've had a punt blocked since I've been coaching," moaned Carlen. "And that covers eight years at Georgia Tech coaching the punters. I can't blame anyone but myself for our kicking game because I coach the kickers."

Reaves broke Steve Spurrier's school total offense record but said, "Blame it on me," after Duke upset the Florida Gators, helped by three interceptions. "I played very badly," Reaves said, "and I'm deeply disappointed in myself."

Pittman Has Come Up With the Half-Wish

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP) — Knute Rockne had the Notre Dame box, Dutch Meyer popularized the spread formation at Texas Christian and Darrell Royal made the wishbone a household word at Texas.

Now comes Jim Pittman and the "half-wish."

The new TCU football coach has taken what he feels are the best points of a tight formation, the wishbone, and a loose one, the pro set, and interwoven them.

The result, he says, is the half-wish.

TCU fans will get their first glimpse of the formation here Saturday night when the Horned Frogs open the season against the University of Texas-Arlington.

In the half-wish, the fullback and one halfback are aligned as in the regular wishbone. The other halfback is flanked outside the tight end. On the other side of the field, the end is split wide.

"My idea was to get our receivers out wide yet still retain a big percentage of our running game without teaching another set and without giving our passing game away," Pittman said.

The Frogs had installed the regular wishbone during spring drills so it was only natural to innovate it some to Pittman's liking.

"We first went to the wishbone because it's a tight formation. When a new coach comes in he wants to see who will hit and who won't. The best way to find out is to get them in tight. Then they won't have to go very far to strike a lick if they've a mind to," he said.

"But in the regular wish, you give up much of your passing game. And when you have a quarterback like Steve Judy, you are not using him to his top potential if you don't throw at least 40 per cent of the time."

"With the half-wish, we have a wide formation yet can still keep the defense honest with the inside running attack. You have to have both to make any offense go.

"Sure, it has some disadvantages. Any time you split some people out you take away from the running game. But with this offense you can run both play-type passes, dropback passes and sprint-out passes."

Pittman says he is "not sure this is a new set," adding that "no one invents offensive formations anymore." He does not even take credit for the name.

"Our assistant coaches just started calling it the half-wish and it stuck," he grinned.

State Won't Practice Much Contact

JONESBORO, Ark. (AP) — Coach Bill Davidson said Monday that Arkansas State University football players would not be practicing much contact football this week, but rather the running, passing and kicking game.

The Tribe worked in pads Monday in preparation for Saturday's opener with Wichita State University.

Davidson told the team that Wichita is a much better football team than last Saturday's 41-7 loss to Texas A&M indicates.

Milestone Reached by Robinson

By GORDON BEARD Associated Press Sports Writer BALTIMORE (AP) — "Drink up, men," Frank Robinson needed his Baltimore teammates, "some of you won't be around for the next 500."

With that, the 36-year-old outfielder took a sip of champagne that had been iced in the Orioles' clubhouse for the express purpose of celebrating Robinson's 500th home run.

Robinson slammed No. 499 in the first inning of Monday's twilight opener, and then reached the magic milestone in the ninth inning of the nightcap when Baltimore rallied to give him another time at bat.

The drive off Detroit's Fred Scherman into the left field bleachers enabled Robinson to become the 11th player in major league history to hit 500 homers.

The ball was caught by Leo Resop, 21, of Baltimore, and turned over to Robinson in exchange for another ball and a bat, both autographed.

"I'm not very sentimental about keeping things," Robinson said, "but I do want to keep this ball."

"I have some in a drawer at home in California — not on display. I may have the ball I hit for my 300th homer and one I asked Stan Musial to sign the year he retired. Stan was one of the greatest hitters I've ever seen, and the only autograph I have of any player."

Robinson entered the season tied with Musial at 475 homers. He tied the late Lou Gehrig at 493 on Aug. 13, then hit two more on Aug. 20 before becoming stymied.

However, Robinson hit four in his last four games to reach No. 500.

The first game homer helped Baltimore to a 9-1 victory as Dave McNally chalked up his 19th pitching triumph, but the Tigers won the nightcap 10-5.

"Reaching 500 didn't bug me too much," Robinson said, "but the fans kept reminding me every time I went to the on-deck circle. That was the only way pressure was put on me."

"I wasn't concentrating the way I should, but I don't think I was overswinging."

Asked about his past homers, Robinson said, "I don't want to sound corny, but they were all important. Naturally, the ones that stand out in my mind were the first one and those I hit in the World Series."

"This one was not the most important, but it was the most difficult," he said. "Now, I can concentrate on straightening myself out for the playoffs and

Manning Is Key to New Orleans

By JERRY ESTILL Associated Press Sports Writer NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Only four years old and already in a "rebuilding" program the New Orleans Saints are depending on rookie quarterback Archie Manning, a handful of proven players and a host of young unknowns to aim them in a winning direction.

Manning has superstar potential and there may be some gems hidden among the younger players, but the established talent is sparse.

Fans are not likely to need more than two or three fingers to keep up with Saint victories. Based on their preseason performance, whether the Saints win at all will depend on Manning staying healthy and being able to perform the same magic in the National Football League he worked in college.

The big redhead from Mississippi runs as well as he passes and the Saints are gearing their offense to take advantage of his talents.

Manning can drop back and pass, but he's most dangerous when he rolls out. And he can go to the right or left with equal effectiveness.

Along with Manning, the Saints have an outstanding punter, adequate receivers, a slashing but injury-prone running back ... and little else.

The team had lost 11 straight going into its final preseason game after struggling to a 2-11-1 record last year.

Coach J.D. Roberts is in his first year as coach since replacing Tom Fears who was fired midway through the 1970 season.

Roberts has traded away last year's starting quarterback and the Saint's No. 1 draft choice in 1970.

In return he got offensive tackle Glenn Ray Hines and fullback Hoyle Granger—both of whom probably will start—and an assortment of unproven young players and draft choices.

"We knew when we embarked on our build-with-youth policy that the progress could be slow and painful," says Roberts.

"There's no doubt that a great deal of improvement is necessary but the situation isn't hopeless and individual progress is being made."

"We've just got to put everything together one of these days—but it can't be accomplished without a lot of hard work, patience and the inevitable defeats that are pinned on a team in this stage of its development," said Roberts.

As many as 11 rookies are good bets to stick on the Saints 47-man roster. Only 20 of the veterans on the 1971 team were on the roster at the beginning of the 1970 season.

Among the established players still on hand are receivers Danny Abramowicz, who led the conference in 1969, Al Dodd and tight end Dave Parks.

Julian Fagan led the conference in punting in 1970 and appears ready to take up where he left off.

Granger and Tony Baker are quality runners, but Granger lacks outside speed and Baker seems constantly hobbled with injuries.

Safeties Hugo Hollas and Doug Wyatt and Cornerback Delles Howell were regulars last year as rookies and will be.

TRIPLES—Metzger, Houst., 11; Morgan, Houst., 10; W.Davis, L.A., 10.

Buchanan Successfully Defends Title

NEW YORK (AP) — Ken Buchanan was seeing the world today from behind closed doors, but Ismael Laguna wasn't seeing it at all.

More than anything else that told the story of Monday night's world lightweight championship fight—a blood-stained Buchanan smilingly facing a post-bout press conference while an obviously unhappy Laguna refused to appear.

Buchanan, who successfully defended for the second time the title he won from Laguna in a disputed fight almost a year ago, could even joke about the punches legally thrown that had brought blood from both eyes and the punches illegally thrown that had battered his kidneys.

"I feel," said Buchanan after the fight, "like my mother has given me a beating. I have a terrible sore back."

And then he added somewhat facetiously: "But I do want to say this—apart from his punching me around the back he fought a fair fight."

The accusation that Laguna had tried a little too hard to regain his title was not without substance. Referee Jimmy Devlin had to warn the Panamanian several times for hitting Buchanan on the back.

But that didn't bother the proud Scotsman, who left cabin-making to endure the rigors of the ring. And neither did his eyes, he insisted. Not even the blackened left eye that began to close in the third round and required 12 stitches to close.

"I didn't think my eye was too bad," said Buchanan. "I was never in trouble at any time. I didn't feel hurt on any occasion. I didn't get too badly worried."

Nevertheless, as soon as the left eye was closed, Buchanan responded by opening up, winning the next seven rounds on The Associated Press scorecard and all but locking up the fight.

In that one, Buchanan gained a split decision by one-point under the 10-point must system. This time he was a unanimous winner, Referee Devlin scoring it 9-6, and Judges Harold Lederman and Tony Costellano going for Buchanan 10-5 and 8-6-1, respectively.

The Catfish went dove hunting.

"I got up at 5 a.m.," Hunter said, "and went out to hunt doves down around Garden City, Mo."

"It relaxed me. I was relaxed when I went out there to pitch."

Hunter and the A's nipped the Kansas City Royals 2-1 in 11 innings. The victory reduced the magic number to two for the A's to clinch the American League's West Division title.

Hunter needed 11th-inning help from Rolfe Fingers after he walked Ed Kirkpatrick, the leadoff man.

The A's can win the division crown tonight by beating the Royals again. Manager "Dick" Williams will call on Diego Segui, 9-6, to go against Kansas City's rookie Paul Splittorff, 8-7.

Hunter, guzzling champagne in the A's dressing room, said his hunting partners were three teammates, Bob Locker, Dick Green and Darold Knowles, and a close friend, Earl Yoder of Garden City.

"We got back to the hotel at 1 p.m.," Hunter said, "and I slept until 4."

He took a healthy swig of the champagne.

"This 20th game is worth more to me in every way than that perfect game I pitched in 1968," said Hunter, who never pitched in the minors and never won 20 games previously. He has lost 11. "I feel like I'm a pitcher now. Twenty is always a pitcher's dream."

Hunter said he was tiring when he was relieved by Fingers.

"No pitcher wants to come out in a situation like that but you don't want to blow the game," said Hunter. "I told Rolfe, 'Let's get 'em, Rolfe.' Rolfe got 'em, retiring the next three batters in order."

While Hunter soaked his arm in ice, the A's dressing room was a wild scene with players running everywhere screaming, "The magic number is two!"

One of them paused by Hunter. "You going dove hunting in the morning, Catfish?" he asked.

"Nope," Hunter replied. "I went this morning." He laughed out loud. "And I got my limit."

The first rule for proper use of Blackwood is that you don't bid Blackwood unless you know what to do when your partner responds.

This first rule expands to the following: Only use Blackwood when you intend to bid six if your partner's response shows that your side holds three aces.

Further expansion points out the inadvisability of using Blackwood when you have a worthless doubleton in an unbid suit.

Another good Blackwood rule is not to use it too often. South's four no-trump call is an example of this. He did have the right type of hand to try Blackwood except that it wasn't quite strong enough. North had limited his hand when he jumped to three spades and unless North held perfect cards for him, South wasn't going to be able to bring home a slam contract.

North was kind enough to show up with perfect cards. The ace and king of hearts were necessary as was the king of spades. The two jacks were extras.

South ruffed the second club, drew trumps and went after diamonds.

Even with perfect cards the slam depended on good breaks. South had to find both trumps and diamonds divided 3-2. Otherwise the hand would collapse on the rocks of distribution.

Many Reasons for Hair Loss

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

Dear Dr. Lamb—My husband is losing his hair. He has a constant itch and has tried all kinds of shampoos for dandruff. He has gone to a dermatologist and gotten treatment and the doctors said he had no skin or scalp disorder. Doctor, what can be causing this? He is a very nervous person and he is the type that his body needs hair on the head or nothing matters. In other words, he has a phobia against losing his hair. His father and family all have their hair. He has had a complete checkup. Heart, blood and bowels are O.K. Do you know what is causing his problem?

Dear Reader—No, I don't. There are many reasons for loss of hair. A common cause, though, is excessive treatment. This includes too many shampoos and dandruff treatments. There is no shampoo that prevents baldness—regardless of what exaggerated advertising claims you may have read.

Some people think that baldness is associated with virility. You might make your husband feel better by telling him that. It is, of course, true that men are more apt to be bald than women. Aristotle, who was bald himself, noted that castrated men did not get bald. (I suspect this is not a totally correct observation.)

A scalp can get itchy from being dry from too many shampoos. Every once in awhile in medicine (and this is especially true of the skin and hair) the best thing to do is leave well enough alone. Tell your husband not to scratch his head, not to overcomb it, and wash it once a week or less with a very mild shampoo.

Graduates Turn Into Laborers

WASHINGTON (AP) — Three years ago Dan Dinello wanted to be a philosophy teacher when he graduated from the University of Illinois. Instead, he is a janitor.

Jeffrey Plack, a 21-year-old San Franciscoan, studied premed at Berkeley then graduated as a history major, Class of '71. Today, he's a machinist.

John Blumberg of Orange, N.J., is a Lehigh alumnus with a master's degree in engineering. Recently, he gave up a $14,000-a-year civilian job with the Navy and plans to buy a farm in Canada.

Why do these college-educated Americans choose to labor with their hands? What satisfaction do they find in swinging a mop or feeding metal into a machine or tilling the soil?

"I realized I'd never get along with the AMA," said Plack, referring to the American Medical Association. "If you're not learning anything in your job, it's not worth anything," said Blumberg.

While most college graduates still follow traditional career patterns, others are opting for a life in which wall-to-wall appliances do not define a man's success, and security has little

THE FAMILY LAWYER

Refusal to Work

Out of work? To millions of people in that predicament, unemployment compensation has been a Godsend. But in order to collect those weekly checks, you have to be willing to take another job if one turns up.

This raises problems. How willing do you have to be? If the job is good but the hours are bad, must you accept anyhow—or lose your right to compensation?

Generally speaking, the law makes reasonable allowance for hardship cases. For example: An unemployed woman was offered a job on the night shift at a nearby factory. When she refused to take it, her unemployment compensation was cut off.

But in a court hearing, she told the judge that she would have had to walk home in the dark through a tough neighborhood—and that she had been terrorized twice by nocturnal assailants.

The judge decided that her refusal to take the job was justified, and ordered her compensation payments reinstated.

That does not mean, however, that you can wait serenely until the perfect job comes along. Another case involved a restaurant worker who, accustomed to working from 6 a.m. to 3 p.m., turned down a job that started two hours later in the day.

"Frankly," he explained, "it's just too hard for me to change my hours. I'm used to the old way."

But this time, a court denied his right to unemployment compensation. He was out of work, noted the court, more by choice than by necessity.

Suppose a job that is offered would create religious conflicts. A number of cases have arisen involving Seventh-Day Adventists who were not willing to work on Saturday.

Almost invariably, the courts have accepted this as a legitimate reason for rejecting a job, with no effect on the person's right to collect unemployment compensation.

"Work which requires one to violate his moral standards," said one court, "is not suitable work."

to do with income. These dropouts from the affluent society hardly form a corporal's guard, but sociologists and college officials view them as the forerunners of a significant trend.

For most, the jobs are temporary, a romantic fling until the job market improves; a gig to pay the rent and save a few coins for travel. A handful view the change as permanent.

"Having more money than your parents does not necessarily make your life better," Dinello said. "If I really wanted to be a philosophy professor, I'd go ahead and be one."

So five days a week, the 24-year-old Dinello hitchhikes from his three-room apartment in Madison, Wis., to the University of Wisconsin where he mops floors from 10 p.m. until dawn for $80 a week.

Henderson Says Jury 'Conditioned'

By HARRY F. ROSENTHAL
Associated Press Writer

FT. MEADE, Md. (AP) — Col. Oran K. Henderson says the jury trying him for attempting to conceal the horror of My Lai "is being conditioned like an audience being sold soap."

"It's a selling technique—this repetition," Henderson said in an interview after the prosecution presented its 40th witness Monday. "I don't see from the over-all testimony a damn thing that helps me, but nothing points a finger at me either."

Most of the prosecution witnesses in the cover-up court-martial, now in its fourth week, have recounted the bloody assault on March 16, 1968, when more than 100 unarmed civilians died before the guns of American soldiers.

Henderson, decorated and wounded in three wars, is charged with failing to investigate the allegations of war crimes thoroughly, failing to report them to higher headquarters as required by Army regulations and then lying twice to an Army board of inquiry. He was commander of the Americal Division's 11th Brigade, parent unit of the task force which assaulted My Lai.

None of the questioning to date has related to the charge of failing to transmit the report of war crimes or to lying to the board headed by Lt. Gen. William R. Peers late in 1969 and in 1970. The first specification has been approached with only a few questions to most witnesses on whether they had been interrogated by Henderson or others.

The testimony of witness No. 40, Jerry Leshner of Clendenin, W. Va., was typical. Leshner, a door gunner in a helicopter supporting the ground troops, talked of seeing 15 to 20 bodies in a ditch from 100 feet up.

"Were you ever questioned about this operation while in Vietnam?" asked assistant prosecutor Capt. Anthony Smith.

A. No, sir.
Q. Specifically, did Col. Henderson ever question you about this operation and what you observed?
A. No.

"It seems to me," Henderson said in an interview, "that they are trying to prove their point by sheer numbers of people. I'm having a hard time staying awake, even though the trial is about me."

"It unfortunately seems memories suddenly begin to improve from the time they testified before Peers. The numbers of bodies they saw are getting larger. In many respects, they are becoming more positive in what they did or didn't do."

Most of the people on the stand have testified at one or more of the five other My Lai trials, including that of Capt. Ernest Medina, still in progress at Ft. McPherson, Ga.

"They are becoming pros at this sort of thing," Henderson said.

Mistaken Identity
PROVIDENCE, R.I. (AP) — James J. McMann of North Providence, drove his son to Boston University Saturday night.

On his way home, McMann, 42, pulled into a Pawtucket parking lot and suddenly found himself surrounded by 26 police cars.

McMann is a lookalike for Stephen M. McDonough, a 23-year-old fugitive wanted for murder, robbery and the shooting of a Massachusetts State policeman.

McMann had been spotted by a motorist in Boston who gave a description of the car to police.

McMann, stopped 40 minutes later, was handcuffed and taken to Providence police headquarters where he was photographed and fingerprinted. He was released moments later, when the prints were compared.

"I wasn't scared," McMann said. "I knew who I was."

Decision at Prison Was Agonizing

By CHARLES HANLEY
Associated Press Writer

ATTICA, N.Y. (AP) — "It just had to be an agonizing decision that I will have to live with."

The threat of massive violence that had hung over Attica State prison for four days had just ended in the rattle of gunfire and clouds of tear gas.

Thirty-seven men lay dead. And state Corrections Commissioner Russell G. Oswald reflected on his decision.

"As regrettable and unfortunate as everything was, if I had to make the decision over again, I would undoubtedly have to do the same," Oswald said Monday.

The bloody assault on rebellious inmates by law enforcement officers and National Guard troops can be traced to the convict uprising of last Thursday, when prisoners gained control of portions of the gray stone fortress and took 38 hostages.

But the ultimate decision to use an all-out attack, at whatever the cost, to smash the rebels was that of one man alone, Russell G. Oswald.

He had the approval of Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller.

In the hours following Thursday's rebellion, the convicts requested formation of a special mediation panel to hear their grievances. And a heavily armed force of 500 state policemen and sheriff's deputies was assembled outside the prison's walls.

In a dramatic face-to-face meeting with the convicts in a prison yard controlled by the rebels, Oswald agreed on the day of the uprising that there would be no administrative reprisals.

Friday, the civilian mediation team worked through a constantly changing list of demands submitted by the prisoners, and Oswald took the first preliminary planning steps toward an all-out assault should it become necessary.

The uprising took its first life Saturday when William Quinn, a guard who had suffered brain damage during the outbreak of violence Thursday, died.

And newsmen were tipped that National Guard troops in Niagara Falls, Buffalo and Batavia had been placed on alert, an action that only Rockefeller could authorize.

Negotiations between Oswald and the convicts reached an impasse Sunday over rebel demands for complete amnesty and the removal of Attica's superintendent, Vincent R. Mancusi.

Oswald did agree to 28 other demands, but his answer on amnesty and Mancusi was a flat no.

The special mediation team continued to work, but it warned that only patience would Secretly, National Guard troops were moving into the town of Attica.

At 8:15 a.m. Monday, Oswald issued an ultimatum: The hostages were to be released and order was to be restored within the prison. He asked for an answer within an hour.

The prisoners never replied. One hour and 46 minutes later, helicopters whirled in over the prison and dropped cannister after cannister of tear gas.

State policemen, guards and sheriff's deputies stormed the prison.

Gunfire echoed from within the prison.

And National Guardsmen made their appearance as 70 trucks rumbled up to the main prison gate and carried fully equipped troops inside the walls of Attica Prison.

In 10 minutes the assault was virtually over. But 37 more lives were gone.

"It became apparent to me," Oswald said, "that further delay would jeopardize the lives of the hostages and would threaten the prison system of the state."

He said the rebels had armed themselves with tear gas launchers and knives and had continued to fashion other weapons. He said they had prepared traps in the building they held and had erected electrically charged barricades.

"It became apparent to me shortly before the attack that we were dealing here with men who were fanatical, men who were revolutionaries," Oswald said.

"It was a decision that had to be made at the moment."

Nixon has invited the nine-member conference executive committee to the White House Thursday to discuss with him the economic restraints to be instituted after the wage-price freeze ends Nov. 12.

In their statement the Democrats said the Nixon program won't create the jobs the nation needs and is not "equitable, efficient, and in accord with the priorities of the American people."

"Actions and proposals advised by the administration fail to achieve our economic goals and fail to assure equity of either benefits or sacrifice," the Democrats said in a statement approved Monday night. "The wage-price freeze extracts the greatest sacrifice from the workingman, the small businessman and the consumer."

Economic Plan Called Inequitable

By WALTER R. MEARS
AP Political Writer

SAN JUAN, P.R. (AP) — Democratic governors, criticizing President Nixon's new economic policy as inequitable, have declared that future wage-price restraints should be accompanied by restrictions on profits, dividends and interest.

They agreed unanimously to present that proposal to the 63rd National Governors Conference today, and seek its adoption on Wednesday. But Republicans can block it easily since approval would require a three-quarters vote.

"They aren't going to get it, if I have anything to say about it," said Gov. William G. Milliken of Michigan, vice chairman of the Republican governors.

Milliken said any talk of a freeze on profits is premature, and Republican governors are not in any event about to endorse a Democratic statement critical of the administration.

Twenty of the 29 Democratic governors and 20 of the 21 Republicans are on hand for the San Juan conference. So 12 Republican votes would be enough to block the statement.

Whatever the outcome, Gov. Marvin Mandel of Maryland, the Democrats' new chairman, said the critical statement "is the policy of the Democratic governors, and it will be presented to the President."

ATTICA, N.Y. (AP) — Order has returned to New York's Attica State Prison, but 37 men are dead after a small army of police and National Guardsmen stormed the rebellious convicts' cellblock stronghold Monday.

Doctors expect the death toll may rise further and public reaction is sharply divided over whether the use of force was necessary. Nine of the dead were among the 38 guards and prison employees held hostage by the convicts; the remaining 28 were inmates.

Urges Tough Yankee Trader Attitude

By BILL NEIKIRK
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — A presidential commission has urged the United States maintain a tough-Yankee-trader stance in an effort to tear down barriers to its exports and move the world toward complete free trade within 25 years.

In addition, the 27-member Commission on International Trade and Investment Policy told President Nixon Monday in a three-volume report, the nation must embark on a vigorous export drive during the next decade with the use of government incentives.

The commission called for international negotiations "at the highest political level" aimed at moving the world toward free trade, tearing down trade barriers, achieving monetary reform and working for a "more equitable sharing" of defense costs by other nations.

While the panel strongly favored free trade, it said it is time for the nation to face up to the "new realism" of international economic life—that Japan and Western Europe have strong, viable economies in direct, effective competition with the United States.

"The United States, still the largest and most attractive market in the world, should more than in the past use its bargaining power in the defense of its economic interests," the commission said.

That, commission officials said, is what President Nixon did when he cut the dollar loose from its tie with gold and imposed a temporary 10-per-cent surcharge on imports. The commission urged a surcharge in its report, which Nixon's aides saw at least a month before the President announced his new policy Aug. 15.

The Nixon administration already has embraced many of the panel's 147 recommendations.

The commission directed specific criticism at the European Common Market and Japan for trade restrictions and preferences and urged the administration to insist on negotiations that would dismantle them.

It said it is time for reform of the international monetary system, a policy sought by the administration in its move to cut the dollar loose from its tie with gold.

School Meet to Discuss Court Order

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Dr. Paul R. Fair, deputy superintendent of the Little Rock School District, said that a meeting probably would be called Wednesday or sometime this week to discuss a federal court order.

The 8th U.S. District Court of Appeals in St. Louis ordered Friday both the Little Rock and North Little Rock schools to eliminate further desegregation of elementary schools this year and to eliminate racial identification of their schools by 1972.

Little Rock was given until Nov. 1 to submit to Federal Judge J. Smith Henley a plan for eliminating racial identification of all elementary schools.

Fair said the district did not know yet what type of proposal it would present.

POLLUTION

Editor-the-Star: I, a citizen of Hope, am very much interested in the problems of pollution and cleaning our environment. My husband and I had a recent experience that led us to believe that other people are not doing their share of keeping our City clean.

First of all, thinking the City Dump was open until 5:30 we arrived there a few minutes before five. The man in charge was just leaving and said we were too late. Although it would only have taken five minutes for us to unload, he didn't offer to let us in.

Well all we could do was turn around, which we then tried to do. But not being so familiar with all of the roads around the dump we entered a private drive by mistake. When we saw that we were in the drive, we started to back up but not before a man came charging up the drive in a jeep, and practically accused us of fixing to dump in his drive.

I would never dream of dumping anywhere, other than the proper places and I was very insulted at his whole attitude. He said that he shoveled trash constantly because people dumped in his private drive. I certainly can understand his point. I just hope other people who intend to dump trash are careful not to get in his drive.

There is a private drive sign but not on the road we went down. Please dump only in the trench. When we finally got turned around, we then drove back

Attica Riot Worst in Recent Years
By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
In violence and bloodshed, Monday's clash at New York's Attica State Prison was far the worst in recent American penal history.

The death toll of 37—nine hostages and 28 inmates—topped the breakout attempt at San Quentin in California Aug. 21 when three guards and three prisoners died.

Five inmates were killed during a riot of 400 prisoners at a prison in Raleigh, N. C., April 17, 1968, the high figure for inmates in modern compilations.
